'The Complete Life' Should Be Devoted To Supreme Being

Missionary Offers Answer For Student Problems

DENOUNCES CYNICS

Rev. Stanley Jones Addressed S.C.M. Gathering

"The human will and the Divine will are like two carbons in an arc lamp. When they coincide they fuse, a bright light is the result." In these words, the Rev. Stanley Jones expressed his idea of complete surrender to Christ before an audience in Strathcona Hall last night.

The Indian Missionary, famous for his church union work in the East, opened his address by asking the students to present their problems to him. In response to his demand a number of questions were asked. The first reply made by the visiting minister was to the question "Must man be born again to enter the Kingdom of Heaven, or is there another way?"

Five Stages

To this he replied there were five stages of existence in the universe, the kingdom of Minerals, Plants, Animals, Man and God. In order for the lower to attain the higher it is necessary for the higher to meet the lower. For mineral matter to become vegetable it is necessary for the vegetable to absorb the mineral, then, and then only, will the mineral become animal; thus through all the stages until we reach the domain of Man. In this last case it is the kingdom of God, in the form of Jesus Christ that comes down to the plain of Man. But before the kingdom of man can adjust himself to the kingdom of God he must do two things, renounce his old life, and surrender his life to the Creator.

But it is argued that this is the age of self expression. How can we reconcile the natural desire for initiative and expression if we surrender our lives? To this the Missionary answered that in order to play the piano it is necessary to learn the fundamental rules. If these are not mastered then no music will be produced.

Cynical Young Men

In answer to the question "Why are the Young Men of Today cynical?" Dr. Jones answered that people have been self-assertive, they have acted on their own and they are not satisfied with what they have produced. Cynics are people who have lost their nerve. Anyone can tear down, but only a builder can build. There is no real evidence of Christ in the cynic.

Christ Ideal Life

Jesus is the ideal life—what life ought to be like. Those who pretend to be self sufficient are not in tune with the Divine. When the human will and the Divine will coincide they are like two carbons in a lamp—a light is produced. If a man will expose himself to the influence of Christ he will find himself lifted to a higher plane. Once the Christian life and true surrendering is tried a convert seldom falls back.

Christ is a Saviour—not of some future date—but at the present time. The Will of God never lets one down, he is the ultimate in the moral and spiritual, he is the answer to the every day problem. It is impossible to prove certain points in religion just as it is impossible to prove that a sunset is beautiful to a person with his back to it, claimed the speaker.

The meeting closed with prayer, Dr.

Frosh Dance Meets Popular Expectation

A gaily decorated ballroom, the strains of a good orchestra, and the happy faces of the freshmen and freshmenettes as they whirled around the floor, featured the Freshmen Informal, held by the combined freshmen classes of the University on Friday night at the Union, under the patronage of Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Keyes, and Mrs. Chesney.

It was the first time that the students of the first year in Arts and Science, Commerce and R.V.C. have cooperated to run a dance. Businesslike Commerce students walked around with dreamy Arts freshmenettes. The cold, scientific exteriors of the Science students melted away before the heat of Jack Bain and his orchestra when they played "How I Do It."

About half-way through the dance a buffet supper was served to all present in the Union Cafeteria. The dance was marked by the sudden appearance of an hilarious Glee Club, who had earlier that evening sung at the Windsor Hotel. The dancing continued until 2:35 a.m.

DAVID BLISS

FRASER GURD who takes the part of David Bliss in "Hay Fever," forthcoming Players' Club production which opens in Moyse Hall, next Friday night.

Devoted Dentists Drop Drills For Dancing Delights

Charlie Dornberger Supplies Music At Ball

THE Main Dining Room of the Mount Royal Hotel provided the setting for the Annual Dental Undergraduate Dance last Friday evening as over one hundred couples danced to the scintillating strains of Charlie Dornberger's Orchestra. Novelty hats, whistles, and balloons supplemented the music and the blowing of whistles and the popping of balloons served to contribute to the merriment of the evening.

Faculty members, graduate dentists, undergraduates and their friends were all on hand and a spirit of friendship and camaraderie prevailed throughout.

Patrons to the dance were: Acting Dean and Mrs. A. L. Walsh, Dr. and Mrs. I. K. Lowry, Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Henry, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Leahy, and Dr. and Mrs. A. W. McClelland. The Dance Committee this year was composed of: Russell Ward, chairman; Fourth Year, H. Harris; Third Year, J. Chamard and P. J. Glinick; Second Year, I. Gullord; and First year, S. Small and C. Bourne. Among those present were:

Ladies
Mrs. A. L. Walsh, Mrs. I. K. Lowry, Mrs. W. G. Leahy, Mrs. A. W. McClelland, Mrs. O. A. Lefebvre, Mrs. G. T. Burke, Miss Mae Murray, Bunny Murray, Ruth Nickle, Gladys Gill, Irene Brown, Pearl Mitchell, Sylvia Lands, Ethel Tuchow, Dorothy McRae, K. M. Johnston, Muriel Carr, E. Derr, B. Marshall, Joan Henry, Pegg Henderson, Florence Jones, Miss Bowes, E. J. Kelly, A. Jordan, Lily King, M. Watkins, Annie Ludwigham, L. Johnstone.

Undergrad Journal Will Appear Soon

Arrangements For Sale Of Magazine Now Complete

Most of the contributions are now in the hands of the Editorial Board and the publication of the Arts Undergraduate Magazine is now well under way, according to the Editor-in-Chief, Alec Gordon. Plans for the sale of the Magazine are now under consideration, and managers for each class in Arts and R.V.C. have been appointed.

The Arts Undergraduate Magazine is the official organ of the Arts Undergraduate Society and will make its first appearance on or about March 15th. It is to be a literary magazine, an outlet for the latent talent of the Undergraduate body. While the new journal is being sponsored by the Arts Undergraduate Society, it has been contributed to by people from various faculties.

An article has been received from Gerald W. Halpenny, President of the Students' Society, on "Our Debt to McGill," while Dean Mackay has also contributed an article on the "History of McGill College." The Magazine will be bound in Red and White and will sell for the nominal sum of twenty-five cents. The sales are under the direction of John McDonald and Allen Anderson, while George Falle, Horace Peck and James Mills are the class representatives in Arts. Gertrude Cooke is in charge of the circulation in R.V.C.

Calendar Reform Projects Reviewed In Radio Broadcast

Professor Bieler Gave Account Of Differences Between New Systems Proposed

CHANGES FAVOURED

Main Criticisms Of Gregorian Calendar Outlined By Speaker In Talk

Reviewing the history of calendars at some length and explaining in detail the main differences between the Gregorian calendar and the two new systems recently submitted to the special committee of the League of Nations, Professor Charles Bieler, D.D., Emeritus Professor of Christian Ethics, United Theological College, was the speaker on the Graduates' Broadcast over station CKAC last Friday evening. The subject of his address was "Reform of the Calendar."

The speaker, in opening told how all but two of the 200-odd projects submitted to the committee appointed to study ways and means of reforming the Gregorian calendar were immediately relegated to the waste-paper basket. These two, he pointed out, agree on a number of points and are being considered in reference to the introduction of a new calendar.

Outlines Criticisms

The speaker defined a calendar as "a table showing the division of the days of the year into weeks and months, giving the date of the principal religious and civic holidays." The main criticisms of the present, or Gregorian, calendar are that the mobility of the date of Easter complicates the life of Courts of Justice, schools and railways, and that there is a difference in the length of the months of the year he said.

Of the two projects now before the League of Nations, both agree that it is regrettable to have a year of 365 days, rather than 364, because the latter number of days corresponds exactly with 52 weeks, Prof. Bieler continued. It is thus suggested that the extra day be considered as a holiday to be added to the seven days of the last week of the year. The same method would be adopted for the extra day of leap year, which would be placed after the last day of June.

Assign Dates

Both projects also assign a fixed date to Easter, the second Sunday in April which would be exactly between March 26 and April 25. Here the agreement in the systems ends, for they differ entirely on another point which is of major importance.

The first system, Prof. Bieler went on, suggests a year of 13 months, each with four weeks. The first day of each month would always be Sunday and each would have 24 working days. This regularity gave the project a certain popularity several years ago, especially in the United States, but it has been almost abandoned now because, with this year of 13 months, division into semesters and trimesters would be impossible. It would also impose additional tasks on those who close their accounts at the end of each month, and the payment of interest would be more difficult and complicated.

New System Favored

The second system, which is most favored now, is a year of 364 days having two semesters of 182 days, or 26 weeks; four trimesters of 91 days, or 13 weeks. It would be divided into 12 months, the first month of each trimester would have 31 days, begin with a

McGill Debaters Oppose Western Tomorrow Night

McGILL debaters meet a University of Western Ontario team in the semi-finals of the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission's debating series for the Canadian Intercollegiate Championship tomorrow night at 7:35 over station CFCF. Philip F. Vineberg arts '35 and George N. Broderick Law '34 will represent McGill opposing the resolution "That the farmer has greater opportunity for happiness than the business man in the city."

McGill has previously defeated the University of New Brunswick and Dalhousie University and will continue in the series if successful against Western. The broadcast will be held over the Canadian Radio Commission's Eastern Network.

"Hay Fever" Opens Next Friday Night

Tickets On Sale Tomorrow At Box Office

WRITTEN BY COWARD

Famous Playwright's Comedy Concerns Life Of Unconventional Family

Arrangements have been completed for the Players' Club production of "Hay Fever," which starts Friday. The box office will be open for the sale of tickets tomorrow, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9 until 6, and on Friday and Saturday evenings after 7:30.

Rehearsals have been progressing in a satisfactory manner it is reported. This play is considered as one of Noel Coward's best, and is replete with sophisticated wit. It concerns the eccentric and, to say the least, unconventional Bliss family, composed of papa the novelist, mama the ex-stage star, daughter, the aspiring operatic prima donna, and son, the cartoonist. Each one of these invite their own particular inamorata to their not too spacious home for the week-end without telling anybody, and the complications that arise are interesting.

All Prepared

The set has been designed by Max Roth, who will be remembered for similar efforts for "He Who Gets Slapped" and "Rope." The set is reported to be a bright and airy creation, quite in keeping with the spirit of the play.

Ronald Leatham, president of the Club, and chairman of the Production Committee for "Hay Fever" reports that all departments associated with the production of the play are functioning smoothly. He feels confident that this production will be even a greater success, from every point of view, than was "Rope." "Hay Fever," Leatham said, "is a play that should be seen by all. It's treatment of family life will be a lesson to all students, and will convince them that the woman's place is in the home."

Cast

Innovations Promised In McGill Musical Concert

All the musical organizations and all the divers types of musicians on the campus will combine tomorrow night in the annual concert of the McGill Musical Association which is to be held in Moyse Hall at 8:15. William Gordon and the largest assembly of "Jazz Artists" ever assembled on the campus have prepared a number of modern selections.

These include "One love in a lifetime," a waltz composed of Bill Gordon himself and which has been featured by several bands in and about Montreal. An uproarious comedy claimed capable of making even the janitor of the Physics Building laugh is also on the program. A saxophone quartet dubbing themselves the "Four Musquitos" will contribute a couple of numbers which are of such torridity that they are said to be capable of making Mae West look frigid.

Among the soloists are Mary Helen Weeks, a graduate of the Eastman School of Music and a well known harpist has appeared in many concerts both here and elsewhere, while Mary Friedman will render soprano solos. Jack Waud will also be on hand to provide entertainment of his own inimitable style.

The three large musical organizations of the campus are scheduled to appear besides the special artists. The Glee Club and the Band have been practicing for the event for several weeks while Mr. R. DeH. Tupper will conduct his Conservatorium String Orchestra in order to lend the proper classical touch to the evening's entertainment.

Macdonald Students Unveiled Memorials On Founder's Day

Colonel Bovey Denounces War In Special Address

CLOCK DEDICATED

Present Important Position And Future Of Macdonald College Indicated

"Far be it from me to glorify war, there is no more efficient way of settling international differences. The man who stirs up war, knowing what war means, deserves our hatred and our contempt," was the contention of Lieutenant-Colonel Wilfrid Bovey, Director of the Department of Extra-Mural Relations, in his address before the students and staff of Macdonald College on Saturday. The occasion was the Founder's Day Celebration, and dedication of the Macdonald Memorials.

Dedications Made

The program of the day started at 4:45 p.m., when the students and staff assembled in the Main Entrance of the College to dedicate the Macdonald Memorial Clock and the Book of Remembrance. Both these are dedicated to the memory of those students of Macdonald College who have given their lives fighting for their country in the Great War. To quote the late Sir Arthur Currie, "The compiling of this book is more than a merely formal list of names. It is a sincere tribute of deep affection; it is an evidence and pledge of our remembrance and our gratitude."

"These young men and women whose names are inscribed, though trained only in the arts of peace, and imperfectly understanding the issue, hesitated not to enter the tournaments of death in order that civilization might be preserved and that the principles for which their fathers fought should not pass from man's possession."

Great Future Visualized

Later on in the evening Colonel Bovey delivered an address to the students in which he stressed the importance of rural life and emphasized the role which Macdonald College will play in the near future in helping towards the realization of a healthy

Maccabean Circle To Hold Informal

Tickets Will Be Put On Sale This Week

Plans for an informal dance are being put into execution by the Executive and the social committee of the Maccabean Circle. The dance, which will be held in the Ballroom of the Union on March 7, will be run on the cabaret style. As yet the orchestra has not been selected, but it will probably be one of the more popular bands which have played at college dances lately.

Tickets will be put on sale during the course of the week, and may be obtained from any member of the executive, or from the committee, which consists of Mark Goldenberg, chairman; and Sylvia Cardon, Leo Kirschberg, Ben Shecter and Hy Klenman. The next meeting of the club will be held on Sunday, February 18th, in the Union, when the annual Freshman-Sophomore debate will be held. The speakers are Anne Romoff, Pearl Jacobs, Clarence Gross, and Sydney Freedman. Gross is president of the Junior Debating League, while Freedman won the Bovey Shield this year.

The subject is "Resolved that the establishment of a Jewish National Homeland in Palestine is a true solution of the Jewish Problem." Musical items will complete the program.

Dr. Snell Speaks

The secondary spectrum of Hydrogen was described by Dr. A. H. Snell at the meeting of the Physical Society on Friday afternoon. When light is passed through a prism or a grating it is broken up into its characteristic colours. Each element gives typical bands, which are always the same for the same element. For this reason spectra may be used to tell us what the source of light is made of.

If, however, the element is excited by tremendous heat, as in the sun, the nature of the bands change. This has been observed as the speaker explained in light coming from the stars, and for some time it was thought to be a new element. Finally, however, it was shown mathematically that it was just the excited or "secondary spectrum" of hydrogen.

Competition Takes Place Tomorrow For Coveted Cup

ELIMINATIONS for the annual public speaking contest for the Talbot-Papineau Cup are taking place tomorrow, Feb. 13th in the Faculty Room of the Arts Bldg. The subject for debate will be announced in the Daily tomorrow morning, and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the competitors will meet prepared to take either the affirmative or negative side of the resolution.

Last year's winner, Leon Smart, will start off by up-holding the affirmative. The first speaker, chosen by lot, then gives a short rebuttal followed by an address on the negative. His attack will be heard by the speaker whose name has next been drawn. He in turn will give his rebuttal and uphold the resolution in front of the fourth speaker, and so on.

From all these, the judges, who have not yet been announced, will pick three men who are to compete in the finals which take place on Wednesday, February 21st. Undergraduates who wish to take part are asked to sign their names on lists posted in the Arts Bldg. Previous winners of the trophy include Arthur Marshall, Edmund Collard, David Lewis, Henry Schaffhausen and Leon Smart.

Support For Peace Movement Required

Mr. Brooke Claxton Addresses People's Forum

PUBLIC MUST HELP

League Of Nations Needs Popular Support To Insure Peace

"If you want peace you must be prepared for war" is one of the most stupid slogans ever evolved stated Mr. Brooke Claxton, Montreal lawyer and lecturer in the McGill Faculty of Law, in "What Can We Do For Peace In Canada." The speaker pointed out that it is much more true to say that if you have competitive armaments you must have war.

Probably the greatest political triumph in history was the evolving of the League of Nations and the principle of maintaining peace by the collective system, Mr. Claxton stated. By placing a law between nations just as there is law between individuals and by arranging for the enforcing of this law by the collective action of nations the League of Nations embodies the best ideas for the maintenance of peace. As a result world peace has probably been dealt its most severe blow by the Japanese invasion of Manchuria and the failure of the League to prevent this action, it was pointed out.

Collective Action Necessary

The necessity of enforcing peace by the collective action of nations is apparent when one considers what would happen if Canada were invaded from the West Coast the speaker stated. British intervention might be extremely difficult while intervention by the United States would probably lead to union between the countries, therefore Canada would be greatly endangered unless she had the collective support of other nations.

The failure of the League in the Japanese-Manchurian conflict could have been prevented if we had shown Japan that we were serious and if the League had received the strong support it deserves. A strong public opinion in favour of world peace is therefore necessary in order to give the League of Nations the strength it requires to carry on its work. It is necessary that people discuss inter-

Crutchfield Counters Twice — Meiklejohn And Farquharson Each Get One

Goalie Shipp Plays Smart Game In Varsity Nets

(By Ralph Silverstone)

VARSITY Rink, Toronto—(Special to McGill Daily)—McGill senior puck squad may be the class of local and intercollegiate hockey circles, but for all their impressive string of victories, are just another hockey squad to the Toronto fans who watched the Varsity puckmen hold them to a 4-4 tie Saturday night, in the second game of the home-and-home series for the intercollegiate championship. The McGill men retained their crown, nine goals to four, on the round, but left a great deal of skepticism in the minds of the spectators as to whether they were the same team which stacked up such a one-sided victory over the Blueboys last Friday night, in the opening of the series.

Jinx Active

Old Man Jinx, who has never yet permitted a McGill hockey victory in the Varsity rink, was probably responsible for the result, but more than likely the Red team did not consider it necessary to extend themselves over an issue in which they already held such a margin. Undoubtedly they fought hard, bumped the Varsity players about the rink with abandon, received a little of the same in return, and forced the pace for the better part of the game; but good hockey, hockey as it should be played, and has been played by the Red team, was lacking. It was just one of those nights, infrequent in the Redmen's calendar, to be sure, where plays which have been remarkably successful on former occasions, simply refuse to click. In fact, it was just the sort of game which every good hockey team occasionally finds necessary to get out of its system, and the sooner done with the better.

Varsity did, however, show themselves improved over last week's performance. Their supporters certainly did not expect them to do a great deal against the team which toppled them in such easy fashion last week, but Warren Stevens' lads were out to do their best, and this they did for the greater portion of the game. But in the last five minutes of the third period—five minutes before the game had terminated—the team provided a positively inspired performance and the most surprising feature of the evening.

First Period Ragged

At that stage of the proceedings, matters stood just about as expected. The first period had been productive of comparatively ragged play, with a single tally from Crutchfield's stick on a pass from McGill, constituting the only score. In the second period, both teams had checked vigorously, a little too vigorously, in fact, for frequent penalties were handed out and even more frequent warnings from the referee, and no goals were registered. The third period, up to five minutes of the termination of the match, had been practically all in the Redmen's favor. Farquharson, Meiklejohn and Crutchfield had scored in succession while Campbell had rung up the first Toronto tally of the evening.

With but five minutes to go, then, the score stood at 4-1 for McGill, and under normal conditions another McGill victory was imminent. Then, apparently, Old Man Jinx thought affairs had gone far enough. Things be-

Glee Club Entertain

Choir Sings At Engineering Institute's Smoker

Entertaining the Engineering Institute of Canada at their annual smoker, the Glee Club made their second appearance this season. The thirty odd voices which form the Glee Club's choir contributed many songs. Mr. Theobald who was conducting persuaded the engineers to join in with the singing, which they did swinging their steins to the chorus of "Landlord Fill the Flowing Bowl."

As the evening was nearing midnight, the Glee Club formed a chain and went around the ancient Blue Room of the Windsor Hotel singing college songs. Finally, after having gone around everybody's table and having sung "Put on Your Red and White Sweaters" about ten times at the request of the old McGill men, they finished their evening with the McGill Varsity and Queen's yells. The E.I.C. acted as hosts and supplied free smokes and the "open up another keg of beer" was in order.

Plea For Apathy

NOMINATIONS are now being called for students to fill eight important campus offices, each of which involves a certain amount of responsibility and a certain amount of prestige. Yet in what a haphazard way students go about the business of filling them!

On the eve of the final day allotted for nomination purposes someone lackadaisically approaches one on the Art Building steps or disturbs one in the library and asks one to sign a nomination sheet, nominating X. Tobias Barleycomb to the position of

The chances are nine to one that your knowledge of Tobias is a very hazy one and your knowledge of his ability, capacity, worthiness or any such quality that might fit him for such a position less. Yet in most cases you will sign the nomination sheet without asking the why and the wherefore.

Better far to be apathetic and refuse to sign if your interest does not carry far enough to learn the abilities of the man you are nominating. More power to the man who has grit enough to refuse to be a puppet in an electioneering campaign.

Be apathetic if you don't know the qualities of the man concerned. Don't allow yourself to be railroaded into being a link in a chain of someone else's making. Too often in the past have we had incapable men in positions of trust merely through this ever increasing tendency.

So, if during the next week and a half you are approached in this regard ask yourself if the man concerned has the ability for the office to which you are being asked to nominate him. You will be apathetic if you don't sign the sheet but far more apathetic if you do.

Convention Or Good Sense?

DURING the past week McGill students have been driven to new measures in an attempt to evade the onslaughts of 'King Winter'. With the mercury hovering around the 20 below zero mark, derbies and fedoras have been wisely left at home and the good old serviceable woollen tuque brought out of mothballs to protect susceptible ears from the danger of frost-bites.

To say that this blow to convention is a sensible one is to speak mildly. Time and again we have advocated just such action, without result. Last year one died hard in our midst disregarded convention entirely and appeared at College wearing a tuque — only to meet with good-natured chaffing. This last cold snap proved to be the straw that broke the camel's back; the man without a tuque or without a ski cap was of the marked minority.

But will this concerted action on the part of the men remain the vogue or will conventional head-gear regain favour with the advent of milder weather? We sincerely trust that the men will continue to have the courage of their convictions and will continue to defy convention in the time honoured method of their Canadian ancestors.

All that now remains to make the custom a lasting one is for several of our deans and department heads to be seen entering Roddick Gates outfitted in Red and White tuques. This indeed would be the death blow to a convention that has been responsible for frozen ears without number.

Equality For Women

IT HAS just been brought to our notice by an R.V.C. reader that the Arts Building is without a smoking room for women students. In an era like this in which we pride ourselves on our broad-mindedness and sense of fair play, it is regrettable that such a condition should exist on our campus.

In all other respects, women at McGill are considered on a basis of equality with men. For this reason we feel that this situation should be remedied in the near future and women allowed the privileges of a smoking room, provided that such is their desire.

REVIEWS

Palace

Superb is only an inadequate word to describe the acting of George Arliss, who returns to the Palace screen this week in the title role of "Disraeli", one of his first film vehicles, screened some four years ago. The reason for the resurrection of this picture is easily apparent to anyone who saw or has seen the picture. For in it Arliss gives one of those rare and unforgettable exhibitions of superb acting, which easily withstands the passage of time. His portrait of England's Prime Minister is a living one; and anyone who has read anything about Disraeli's life cannot fail to appreciate the uncanny manner in which Mr. Arliss catches his spirit and character.

Though the technique of the film is not very good, being made in the early ascendancy of the talkies, yet the performance of Arliss easily nullifies these defects. Supported by an adequate cast, including Joan Bennett, Mr. Arliss makes "Disraeli" one of the greatest talkies ever made.

The second film, "The House on 56th Street" brings to the screen a personable lady-gambler in the person of comely Kay Francis, but the story, including mother-love, an undeserved prison sentence and the like, is not particularly new. However abetted by Gene Raymond, the platinum blonde, Ricardo Cortez and Margaret Lindsay, Miss Francis makes the film a fairly enjoyable one.

Mickey Mouse and Paramount News round out the program.

Capitol

Chalk up to the credit of Radio Pictures and Thornton Freeland, director, the first screen musical that didn't bore this scribe stiff. "Flying Down to Rio", dear reader, is not a backstage romance, it does not describe the love-life of a chorus girl, it does not show a group of semi-clad female dancers going through machine-like drills at nauseam, (you know, the star, the fountain, the revolving wheel, the flower, etc.), and finally it has not a romantic tenor who couldn't make the grade in the Little Podunk Dramatic Society's Christmas performance.

But it has got among other things, swell music by Vincent Youmans, a "Carica" number played by a Brazilian orchestra which alone is worth the admission price, and the dancing and humour of the one and only Fred Astaire, who could probably do even better if sister Adele were there too. As in all good musical comedies, the plot is not allowed to blight the gaiety of the music and dancing, but is kept discreetly in the rear.

Oh yes, we almost forgot. Mark this well, for it is front page news. There is not a beautiful understudy who makes good when the nasty old leading lady breaks her leg. This puts "Flying Down to Rio" in a class by itself.

Loew's

Loew's presents a vaudeville bill of an exceptionally high all-round quality and a minimum of vulgarity this week. The Twelve Canadian Rockets are seen in three sprightly well-costumed dance routines, outstanding among which is an ingenious creation, "The Marionettes". Alexander Santos and Co. in a parody on ballet-dancing are hilarious, the Three Bernie Brothers dance well with their feet chained together, and the five Arleys present an exceptionally sensational acrobatic act. A singer, and the usual duo of humorists (funnier than usual) round out a well-balanced bill, which is helped in no small measure by the work of Edmond Sanborn and his orchestra on the stage.

The feature picture "Eight Girls in a Boat" though dealing with a timeworn theme holds the attention, and incidentally gives Paramount's Beauty Contest winners frequent opportunities of displaying their beauty. It deals with a modern school in which the girls apparently do very little but row, swim, and play, though subjected to rigid discipline. One of them breaks away and gets into trouble, and the solution of it provides the theme of the picture. Dorothy Wilson and Douglas Montgomery play the leading parts with understanding.

Imperial

A very good double-feature programme this week. "La Fille Du Regiment" is a lively comedy of the best vein, with somewhat a "Mam'zelle Nitouche" touch. It is filled with frank and (for once) wholesome gaiety, and keeps us interested up to the end in the fate of the soldierly "Mary 13" (Any Ondra) the adoptive daughter of the 13th Highlander Regiment. Her first love-affair has as unusual background a liquor-smugglers' chase and final capture.

The plot is well treated, the different parts are well-rendered and photography offers many unique features, especially a torch-searching party sking down the darkness of the mountains.

"Les Bleus Du Ciel" as its name suggests deal with airplanes, aviators, and the usual bustle of an airport. The hero (Albert Prejean), a shy mechanic, in quest of his love-dream, decides in taking lessons in "will-power", and thereafter becomes, as he boastfully declares it "a somebody!".

But look out for the final crash... and wedding-bells!

Music

Benefit Concert

THE Montreal Orchestra conceded almost entirely to the tastes of people who buy a certain type of ticket expecting to get $500. with their purchase. The symphonic concert for this week-end was conspicuously lacking in real symphonic work with the respectful exception of Wagner's "Meistersingers" Overture, but the concert should help to increase the Orchestra's potential audience; there was enough of a crowd hoping to hear the concert to fill two His Majesty's Theatres.

The theory that the people came to hear the music received a slight jar at the interest shown in the drawing held during the concert, but was somewhat substantiated by the fact that the winner did not think enough of music to come along to the theatre, to hear as well as to receive. The benefit part of the concert was apparently a success, for according to the words of Mr. Drinkwater who drew the winning ballot, the returns warrant the continuance of the orchestra for a little while at least.

Orchestra and soloists did not dig very deeply into their musical libraries. The gay Dvorak "Carnival" Overture set the mood of the concert, and began repaying that part of the audience which thought sufficiently of the art to stand after all seats had been occupied. Alfred O'Shea, tenor, offered three excerpts from Handel including the sure-to-be-popular "Where e'er You Walk". In his usual rich, throaty voice, Maurice Onderet was his customary suave self in the colorful "Air on the G String" by Bach.

Two other soloists were featured on the program. Lucien Plamondon, cellist presented one of the best numbers of the evening, characterized by excellent tone and very careful playing. A bassoon solo by Mr. R. de la Tupper seemed to amuse the audience rather than impress it. The fact that the instrument sounds like a mimic of the human voice accounts for the laughter that greeted the efforts of the soloist. The arrangement of the song did the rest.

The orchestra completed the program with the delightful "Pizzicato Polka" by the brothers Strauss, the "Peer Gynt Suite" by Grieg, and the Wagner.

Ellen Ballon

ELLEN BALLON, who was to have played at the Wednesday 9 O'Clock last Wednesday, but had to postpone her recital to tomorrow due to an injured finger, will be heard on the latter date in the ball room of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Miss Ballon's recitals in Montreal are always looked forward to with pleasure. Those who heard her play the Saint-Saens concerto here last year at the gala concert under the baton of Wilfred Pelletier, have not soon forgotten her success on that occasion.

CANADIAN POWER INDUSTRY (From The Royal Bank Letter)

In the months of July, August, September and October 1933, the production of electrical energy in Canada exceeded that in the corresponding months of any previous year. In November the amount generated surpassed the previous peak of production attained in November 1929 by three million kilowatt hours daily, equivalent to six per cent, and without doubt the total amount of energy generated during the year constituted a new record for Canada.

In view of the exceptionally low level of production throughout 1932 and in the early months of 1933. It is difficult to account for the magnitude of production later in the year. Although the intervening months witnessed rapid business recovery, and in spite of the fact that industrial production at the end of the year attained about 87 per cent of the volume of 1928, as compared with 40 per cent in March, this does not constitute an adequate explanation as to why the amount of electrical energy generated in September, October and November 1933 should have exceeded the production of the corresponding months in 1926 by 49 per cent, or of the corresponding months in 1929 by 3 per cent.

Since this improvement in the volume of energy generated has come at a time when business activity is expanding, it might seem as though the statistics of energy generated would constitute a good index of industrial activity. It is probably true that there is such a relationship in the United States where consumption of energy is dependent upon a wide variety of industries, no one of which is of overwhelming importance.

In 1927, for instance, the amount of energy generated was double the amount produced in 1933, and certainly industrial production did not double in four years. This rapid trend was continued through 1928. It was in those years that there was the great expansion in the paper industry, and at the same time there were many industries which were substituting electric power for steam. When these two factors are given due weight it is not surprising that the upward trend in electrical production was more pronounced than the upward movement in general industrial production.

With due allowance for seasonal fluctuation, the decline in energy production did not begin until 1930, but by the latter part of 1932 it had sunk to about the level of 1928. This falling off in the power industry came somewhat as a surprise, since the production of electrical energy had been pictured as an ascending curve which was likely to be modified only slightly by relatively severe depressions. It is said that the processes of recovery take place more rapidly than those of recession, and certainly the quick recovery in the amount of energy generated during the past few months would seem to support this conclusion. Since last May the total decline of three years has been more than offset, and at the end of 1933 a new record was established. During 1933 the number of kilowatt hours of electrical energy consumed in Canada was about three times as large as the amount consumed in 1923, and present indications suggest that the total volume of 1934 will be fully four times as large as that of eleven years ago.

In contrast with these records stand the facts that industry has not recovered to a point where there is a normal demand for energy for plant operation, and that the revenue of the power companies is still at a relatively low level. Canadian electrical statistics are not sufficiently detailed to reconcile this apparent anomaly completely, but a study of the character of current consumption will give a better understanding of the situation.

The decline in power consumption can be attributed to the complete shutdown of a large number of plants throughout the country. As these plants have re-opened, their demand for power has increased far more rapidly than has their volume of production. Most of these plants have contracts under which they pay for a minimum amount of power whether or not it is used. In any case, the unit cost of energy is high for small amounts and the cost per unit decreases rapidly as volume increases. The plant which is operating fairly steadily has every inducement to increase its energy consumption.

Sunday, and always have five Sundays. The second month would have 30 days and always begin on Wednesday, while the third month would also have 30 days and always begin on Friday. Each of the two latter months would have four Sundays and all three would have 26 working days.

If this plan is adopted, Prof. Bieler asserted that it would be as easy to teach school children the calendar as geography. Dates would always fall on the same day of the week, for instance, July 15 would always be Sunday, as would September 10. Labor Day would always be Monday, September 4, and Christmas would invariably fall on Monday.

Firms selling almanacs and diaries might lose some business, he concluded, but life would be more regular and people would soon wonder how it was that such a simple and practical calendar had not been adopted before.

Public Support
The same spirit of service must accompany the peace movement that inspires nations on to victory in time of war. The benefits to be derived are much greater for a victory in war is usually a very empty one Mr. Claxton pointed out. It is necessary that war be regarded as a crime by the peoples of the world; that progressive disarmament is brought about; that the private manufacture of arms be discontinued and that trade channels be opened up if the feeling of insecurity that prevails everywhere is to be dispelled and if peace is to be permanently maintained.

Van Reet Annexes Foil Championship

McGill's musketeers retained their strong hold on the provincial fencing title at the Y.M.H.A. Salle D'Armes, Friday night, when George Van Reet displayed his keen technique with such advantage that none could withstand his swift lunges. He wrested the title from Herb Wiggers, last year's title holder. Van Reet went through the elimination stages easily and did not lose a bout in the finals. Herb Wiggers ended up tied with Otis, in third place to Otis, ceding that Gitterman took second place.

Results of the meet: Van Reet, McGill, 1st; Gitterman, 2nd; Otis, 3rd; Wiggers, 4th; Pollack, 5th; Gavagah, 6th; Silverstone, 7th.

Judges: Mrs. W. Consiglio, Prof. P. E. Nobbs, Lieut.-Col. J. W. Long, Messrs. H. Gauthier and H. Silverstone. Scorer—Dr. Boness.

Intermediate Team Beats Bishops 2-1

Take Measure Of Lennoxville Squad In Close Hockey Win

McLERNON, ELWOOD SCORE FOR REDMEN

Juniors Fall Victim To St. Francois 2-1 In J.A.H.A. Encounter

McGILL'S entry in the intermediate college hockey loop had to travel all out Saturday night to hold Harry Griffiths' speedy Bishop's sextet in check, and required eight minutes of overtime to finally slip in the tally that broke a two period deadlock, the winning goal coming from Ned Elwood's stick just two minutes before the end of the overtime session to give the Redmen a 2-1 decision over the Lennoxville students.

By their win McGill moved further ahead in the college circuit and have yet to be defeated in the four club intercollegiate league, having won all four games played. Loyola remain in second place, four points in the rear, with Bishop's and U. of M. in third and last places respectively. One more victory will give the Redmen first place in the final standing, regardless of the results of the other games that remain. Their two remaining games, both with U. of M., who have yet to win will decide the issue.

Bishop's Score First

Bishop's, led by Harry Griffiths, who donned the blades to help his charges in their quest of victory proved much stronger on their home ice than when they appeared on the Forum ice. With Griffiths making the plays, the Lennoxville team put on a display that almost earned them a victory but they failed to come through with their scoring chances. Ten minutes after the start, Basset, husky centre player, stepped through alone to drive home his teams only tally and for the rest of the period it appeared as if McGill might go down to defeat but they held on and then came back strong in the second period.

Thirty seconds after the period commenced, Bob McLernon, recruited from the juniors when Fred Wigle was taken to Toronto with the seniors, tied things up with a pretty shot after driving in close from his wing, beating Hibbard in the Bishop's cage cleanly. Hard and rugged play, with both teams travelling at a fast clip for the rest of the frame and then exerting even more pressure in the final session failed to produce the deciding goal. Neither team spared itself in its efforts to notch the winning counter and wide open hockey, with plenty of spills and thrills kept the onlookers in a state of wild excitement.

Elwood's Goal Wins

The first five minute session of overtime found play raging back and forth but not until Elwood eluded the Bishop's defence to blast a low shot that trickled in through Hibbard's

Intermediates Trim University Of Montreal 24-19 In Curtain Raiser

Seniors Preparing For Return Game With University Of Vermont

By A. C.

THE RED SENIOR CAGERS leisurely swept aside another challenge to their intercollegiate title when they toppled the University of Western Ontario 26-23 Friday night, in an exhibition of the cage game which seldom sparked, but which nevertheless was characterized by a steady if not brilliant offensive and an almost impenetrable defensive system. In the curtain raiser, the Red Seconds trimmed the University of Montreal 24-19, to gain as it were, a double victory, for their triumph was registered with both the Intermediate A section of the M.B.L. and the Quebec Intermediate-Intercollegiate League, of which both these squads are members.

Never Much Extended

The Seniors were never much extended in their match, although the Mustangs managed to make things interesting for a while when in the last half, with but six minutes to play, they counted nine points in a row to boost their total from 14 to 23 as the McGill defense seemed, for no good reason at all, to melt before the purple-clad attackers. The half-time score stood 14 to 9 for McGill.

Previous to this eleventh hour threat the Red rear guard had been staging a remarkably effective performance as time after time the Western squad was compelled either to shoot from far out or to play catch with the leatheren sphere far from the McGill basket. The number of times the invaders had penetrated the inner guard to get a closer shot could have been counted on the fingers of one hand. Responsible for the outstanding guardianship of the baskets were Don Young, who picked practically every rebound off the back-board, and George Faulkner who started on the defense in the second half and consequently proved Coach Van Wagner's strategy a huge success.

Young Smart

The ubiquitous Mr. Young also managed to make himself a nuisance on the attack, where his bullet-like passes and brilliant play-making found eager maturity at the capable hands of Captain Reed Lewin, who accounted for eleven points and Faulkner, whose sniping gained him four brilliant baskets.

The substitute forces, in the strength of which McGill has rejoiced in the past five years or more, again proved their worth when Donny Small and Gene Gourmley on the forward line, and Marty Bowes fitted into the general proceedings in effective fashion.

Garrett Efficient

For Western, Gordon Garrett, a newcomer to the squad, was by far the most efficient man as he knifed his way through for five baskets. Whitehill and Orville Zavitz, veteran of three years' standing, also figured in

Winter Outing Club Places Fourth In Dartmouth Meet

Ball Takes Downhill — Goode Second In Snow-shoe Run

McGILL'S winter outings came through the Dartmouth Meet, held at Dartmouth over the week-end, with fair success, considering that one of their star performers, Frank Campbell, was unable to represent the university owing to an unfortunate injury sustained last week. The Redmen ended up on the lists fourth with 14 points to their credit. Dartmouth University, always strong bidders for the Dartmouth Trophy, retained their intercollegiate title in fine style annexing 35 points, to lead their nearest competitor, the University of New Hampshire, by 11 points. St. Patricks of Ottawa nosed McGill out of third place by the narrow margin of 2 points. Ottawa followed the Redmen with 8 points.

McGill met with most success in the 1 mile downhill race. Bill Tait put up a great show to lead the field in the time of 58.4 secs. Bill Tait came in fourth and the Houghtons, Jim and Jack, finished fifth and sixth in that order.

Clark Takes 15 Km.

The 15 kilometre run was taken by Bud Clark of St. Pat's. Bill Tait displayed his prowess to take fifth place in this event.

In the two mile snowshoe run, Anderson of New Hampshire nosed in ahead of Jeff Goode to take the race. Jeff put up a great show. Finn of Macdonald finished in sixth place while Billingsley placed eighth.

Second In Slalom

The Redmen placed second, third and fourth in the slalom, finishing behind Emerson, old Dartmouth standby. Jack Houghton came second, followed by Bill Tait who preceded Pete Renold. In the jumping contests Bill Ball placed eighth. Bud Clark of St. Pat's took the event without much ado.

McGill's representation lacked entrants in the speed and figure skating events, and their chances in point making in these events were potentially weakened.

Senior Q. A. H. A. Play-Off Dates Set

Play-off dates of games to determine the Q.A.H.A. representative to start the long grind leading to the Allan Cup have been announced by President Ken Stewart. Semi-final games will be played on Sun. Feb. 18, Wed. 21, Fri. 23, and Sun. 25. The first and last dates will feature Royals and Canadiens, 2nd and 3rd place teams, while McGill will play the 4th place Verdun aggregation on Wed. and Fri.

Provided that the outcome of the games is as expected, the Redmen will tackle the winners of the Royals-Canadiens battles in a two game series on Wed. Feb. 28 and Fri. March 4. If perchance Redman falter, the winners of the Royal-Canadiens series will tackle Verdun on Wed. 28 and Sun. March 6. Semi-final games will be two game series, total goals to count, while the finals will be run on a best two out of three basis.

Science I Cagers Annex Class Title

Science I's smart cage quintette annexed the class basketball championship by virtue of their win over Medicine IV, 26-18. The Sawbones found the going hard against the faster freshman outfit, and had their hands full keeping the winners down to their 26 points.

The standout player for the Science cagers was Wigdor, netting 8 points, with Wolofsky running a close second with 6. Price and Winkler also abetted the Science cause admirably against the big, bad Medics.

Hockeyists 3-1 Win Over Levana Six

Babs Goulding Nets Two Counters — Marg. McCuag Gets One

HEAVY BACKCHECKING

(Special to McGill Daily)

JOCK HARTY MEMORIAL ARENA. Kingston, Feb. 9.—McGill's co-ed puckchasers found the going much to their liking in the exhibition tilt here with the Tricolor co-eds and drubbed the Levenaites in fine form by the count of 3-1. The Kingstontes were a well-trained, hustling sextette, but they could hardly match strides with Ken Farmer's charges, and for the most part were content with holding Babs Goulding and Co. in check.

Play was carried for the most part by the Red team, the game being featured by their individual rushes. A few minutes of futile rushing terminated in first blood for McGill after Babs Goulding tricked her way through the Lillian Ward-Jean Nelson rearward and sent a stinging shot flying by goalie Marg. McGregor which she could no more stop than an express train.

Doughty Defense

This goal sped up the game considerably, and sent the Queen's team on a scoring campaign which met with little success. Their best efforts were turned back by the doughty bulwark presented by Jean Buchanan and Edith Walbridge. The shots that the Kingstontes had on goal were capably handled by Janet Clouston, on duty between the pipes.

Marg. McCuag turned the second Red trick of the night when she flicked the puck by goalie McGregor from a scuffle in front of the Tricolor nets. Queen's girded their loins and a determined combination rush featured by the two way passing of Marg. Chambers and Eileen McLean, resulted in a neat score for the Tricolor. A scramble ensued in front of the Red nets and Eileen McLean picked a corner shot that dented the twine.

Heavy Checking

Third period play was rough with heavy checking on both sides. The Goulding-Russel-Schnebley line had Marg. Chambers and Lillian Ward on their toes all through the period, and it was only due to their close checking that the score was not higher than 3-1. It was left for supermarksmen Goulding to get the last counter past the Tricolor goalie which she did in the most up-to-date Farquharson fashion a few minutes before the final whistle.

The pick of the McGill co-eds were Babs Goulding, Edith Walbridge, Marg. McCuag, and goalie Janet Clouston, while Eileen McLean, Marg. Chambers, Lillian Ward, and Jean Nelson did yeoman duty for the Kingstontes.

Queen's (1): Marg. McGregor, goal; Mary Brophy, Eileen McLean, wings; Marg. Chambers, centre; Lillian Ward, Jean Nelson, defence; Ruby Cordy, Jean Cameron, Helen Cram, Arlene Averill, alternates.

the purple efforts. Conspicuous by his unavoidable absence was Captain Cherniak, who will be remembered by fans for his fine performance in last year's McGill-Western contest, which the Redmen also succeeded in winning. The purple-uniformed crew should be heard from a little later in the season, when they plan to receive other members of the Intercollegiate Union on their own home floor where they are traditionally tough.

A busy week awaits the seniors as they commence practice today for the game against University of Vermont to be played on Wednesday night at the Sun Life gym, and a game here with Queen's, scheduled for next Saturday night at the M.H.S. gym floor. The Vermont game is being sponsored this year by the M.B.L. executives, who are doing their bit to keep alive the old traditional rivalry between these two international seats of learning. The red and the green-and-gold from below the border have been meeting every year on the basketball floor ever since 'way back when' McGill journeyed to Burlington just before last Xmas, where a close 28-22 defeat was administered them.

Accordingly, Coach Van Wagner's men vow vengeance, and Wednesday night will see them go after it. Students are reminded that tickets for the game are now on sale at the Athletic Penalties: Elwood, Crawford, McHarg.

Stuart Ebbitt's McGill juniors, after leading St. Francois Saturday afternoon for two periods succumbed in the final period when the Saints, aided by penalties to McGill players ran in two fast goals and then pulled ahead again after McGill had tied it up to earn the decision by a 3-2 margin, pulling themselves into a third place tie with Royals in the standing.

Bill McDonald registered assists on both McGill tallies, with Kennedy converting in the first period, and Grier doing the trick in the final frame. Penalties to Probert and McDonald proved the undoing of the Redmen, enabling Martin, Lachapelle and Royal to rap in goals for St. Francois.

The teams:

McGill	goal	St. Francois
Pacaud	defence	Bouvette
Dickson	defence	M. Laroche
Probert	defence	Marchand
Kerrigan	centre	Martin

Last Minute Rush Gives Blueboy Puckmen Draw

gan to happen. From a scramble in front of the Red nets, Rey slipped a pass to Cunningham, who promptly shifted it behind McHugh. Then Varsity turned on the steam. A veritable barrage followed and McHugh was peppered with shots. The Redmen, of course, were far from out of the picture, for intermittent with the Varsity attacks, were making dangerous sallies up into Varsity territory. But in the few minutes that remained Hendry whisked the rubber into the twine.

Frank Shipp, in the Blue nets, was blasé in front of the nets. That left Varsity one goal down and one minute to play, and not one among the hundreds would have thought another goal possible. But improbable as it seemed, McPherson, who has been playing a fine game all evening, deadlocked the score, with the third Toronto tally in five minutes, and registered at least a moral victory for the Varsity supporters.

Shipp Standout

Frank Shipp, in the Bleu nets, was undoubtedly the standout of the evening. Some of his saves were really remarkable. McPherson and Campbell appeared to be the hard-workers on the Blue team, figuring in most of the attacking plays. Crutchfield, Farquharson and McGill were particularly

'The Complete Life' Should Be Devoted To Supreme Being

Jones asking that all those who really tried to find the true life be shown the way. He suggested that the human attempt to attain his personality to that of the Deity on the same basis of all human relationships. First to draw near, secondly to surrender to the Deity, thirdly to take some spiritual value from God and lastly to make a mutual adjustment. When this latter is done the true Christian form of life has been reached.

Professorial Tastes Matter In Exams

Syracuse, N. Y.—A three-point plan for students completing their last minute preparations for exams was outlined yesterday by Dr. John N. Washburne, of Teachers College.

Concerning physical preparation, Dr. Washburne warned that the use of any form of narcotics such as tobacco and alcohol lowers intellectual ability. "The depressing effects of alcohol on mental ability last 24 hours, even of a bottle of beer," he stated. He also recommended a very light diet before exams, claiming that a heavy meal will injure the student's mental ability for a short time more than a small amount of beer.

"Please Professor"

Moderate sleep and a carefree attitude were also included in his list of rules. A considerable amount of time, 24 to 48 hours, should elapse between the heavy review and a brief brushing up just before an exam.

As his second point Dr. Washburne stated, "Find out what your professor expects and try and give it to him. Some professors like original contributions and criticisms, and give higher marks for them. Others mark down for criticism."

Organization Necessary

"In studying for specific exams, study for an objective quiz just as you would for an essay type," Dr. Washburne advised. "If you try to do it on a pure memory basis without organizing your information, you are lost. You must reconstruct your knowledge at the time of the exam." As for answering essay questions, his advice was to organize the material, think clearly, and make the organization of material visual as well as verbal, using margins and spaces and labelling clearly. He advised students to use any factual material to illustrate generalizations, such as names and dates or other concrete illustrations.

TURKEY'S NEW ANTHEM

Order are out that the whole Turkish nation must learn the new national anthem, "March of the Republic."

In all Houses of the People throughout the land the anthem is being taught in double-quick time to groups of 500 and more. These houses are the cultural and propaganda centres of President Mustapha Kemal's People's party.

The words of the new anthem are:

Oh, what happiness were these ten years for us:
We have created a new hearth.
Tomorrow is full of a mighty hope.
We have torn up the wild weeds;
We have put down shining rails.
In every struggle
The Ghazi (Mustapha Kemal) is before us.
The place of this nation is at the head of all.

aggressive throughout the evening, and garnered penalties on that account. In all, although mediocre hockey was the menu, the roughness of the play was sufficiently compensatory to the fans, to cure an interesting game.

The summary and lineup follow:

McGill	goal	Toronto
McHugh	defence	Shipp
Hall	defence	Campbell
Meiklejohn	defence	Rey
Farquharson	centre	MacPherson
Farmer	wing	Hendry
Robertson	wing	McLellan
McGill Subs:	McGill, Powers, Crutchfield, Wigle, Shaughnessy.
Toronto Subs:	Williamson, Cunningham, Sweeney, Jeffrey.
Referee:	Duke McCurrie.

First Period

1—McGill, Crutchfield (McGill) 14.50
Penalties: Crutchfield, Farquharson.

Second Period

No score.
Penalties: Campbell, McGill, Jeffrey.

Third Period

2—McGill, Farquharson 2.30
3—Toronto, Campbell 6.00
4—McGill, Meiklejohn 6.30
5—McGill, Crutchfield 8.30
6—Toronto, Cunningham (Rey) 14.50
7—Toronto, Hendry 17.40
8—Toronto, McPherson 19.00
Penalties: Wigle, Rey, Farmer, McPherson, Meiklejohn, Farquharson.
